It's no coincidence Tinsley Ellis is returning

Bluesman brings solo acoustic tour to Baker Street

BY ANDREW McNAIR

WHATZUP FEATURES WRITER

Happy little coincidences are a wonderful thing, especially when they turn chance encounters into magical human connections. If you live long enough and keep your eyes open, you'll find them when you're least expecting it.

I spoke by phone with legendary Atlanta-based blues rock guitarist Tinsley Ellis about his Naked Truth Tour, which stops in Fort Wayne on Saturday, March 16, at Baker Street Centre.

SOFT SPOT FOR THE FORT

Ellis and I are of the age that we quickly turn to reminiscing, and we found a couple of those happy little coincidences along the way.

Before we really got started, I told Ellis I saw him at The Slippery Noodle in downtown Indianapolis in the early '90s, which got him thinking about his first solo tour after relocating to Chicago. It stopped in Fort Wayne, arranged by his dear friend Doc West, a longtime radio DJ. He couldn't recall the venue, but he has always kept a soft spot in his heart for the Summit City.

"Fort Wayne has always been full of coincidences and always been full of magic, and we've really enjoyed playing at C2G," Ellis said of the venue now known as Baker Street Centre. "I always see so many old friends there.

"It was one of the first places, first towns, I played outside of the Southeast when I got with Alligator Records in '88. It's probably because its proximity to Chicago. I would play there along with Chicago and Ann Arbor and places like that. So, it's really part of my old circuit when first getting with Chicago.

"I have to mention Doc West, who gave me my start there in town by playing me. And the love for that man is always at every show that I play there."

FEATURED WORLDWIDE

Ellis worked out of Chicago for a while, but his roots go back to the Southeast.

He gained international recognition when NBC featured him during coverage of the 1996 Summer Olympics in Atlanta.

"All eyes were on Atlanta in 1996 for the Olympics, and they're talking specifically about where to come in Atlanta to hear some indigenous Georgia music, and they interviewed me," he said.

"I'll tell you something about it that I don't usually tell, and it's an interesting coincidence. My interview was shot while I was on the road for this segment. It was not shot while I was in Atlanta, and it was shot on stage before a performance at The Slippery Noodle. So, The Slippery Noodle got some love out of that, too. They had their sign behind me on the wall, and it was on network news."

STRIPPED DOWN

Ellis isn't just a road act. He's recorded a ton of interesting music, including a couple of collections he made just for the fans and for the challenge.

I asked him about his newest release with Alligator Records, Naked Truth. It's just Ellis and an acoustic guitar. No backing band, just him.

"Well, Naked Truth is an album that I always wanted to make, and it's an album that fans have asked for a long time," he said. "I've been doing a little acoustic part of my electric shows in the middle of the show every night for years, and this is the full extension of that.

"Plus, during the pandemic, I was doing a Sunday morning coffee song post on the internet every week, where I would do either an original song or sometimes a cover song like Bob Dylan or Greg Allman or something like that. I did that all through almost two years for the pandemic.

"All of a sudden, I assembled this list and I thought, 'Well, gosh. I've got all these songs. And the response is really great online, and then the response is great during the acoustic breakdown part of the show.'

"And I thought, 'I think I would really like to do an all-acoustic album.' And so I brought it to the record label, and we tossed it around, and they insisted that it would still have a lot of guitar playing in it, because that's primarily what I'm known for. And they also insisted that it would have mostly original material, rather than just me rehashing blues standards or something like that. They worked me pretty hard on it, and we came up with a nice blend of all those things."

GOING AGAINST GRAIN

Naked Truth isn't the first time Ellis did something a little out of the ordinary.

His 2013 release Get It! was entirely instrumental — full band with a driving piano and his searing guitar.

"Well, very much like this new album, that was a specialty type album, an album I hadn't done before, an album I always wanted to make, and an album that fans had asked for," he said. "I usually put instrumental songs on my albums, and someone combined all of those into, I believe it was a cassette tape — that's how long ago it was — and made a mixtape of all my instrumentals. He showed me the tape. It said Tinstrumentals, like a play on Tinsley and instrumentals. Tinstrumentals.

"I wanted to make a Tinstrumental album, and did that.

"I was not able to get my record company on board with it. Alligator was skeptical, and so I started my own record label, and they were skeptical as well! And you know what? That album has turned out to be a fan favorite, so much so that after it was out for, oh gosh, five years, I made a vinyl version of it. And so that has turned into a fan favorite, that instrumental album."

As we were wrapping up, we hit one more coincidence.

"Oh, I just thought of the name of the first Fort Wayne venue that I played at," he said. Was it called Columbia Street?"

"Yep, Columbia Street West," I said.

"Thank you, God, it came to me," he said. "I would've been up all night trying to remember. Those were some magic shows."

At that point, I had to let him know that place had a strong meaning to me, too. It was where my wife and I went on our first date.

Maybe Ellis is right about Fort Wayne. Coincidences and magic.

Flanagan's Wake is not your usual production

Audience takes part in comedic romp staged in local funeral home

BY ANTHONY GADSON

WHATZUP EDITOR

It's the time of year when winter gives way to spring, college basketball takes center stage, and everything turns a bit green for St. Patrick's Day.

As the Guinness and green beer flows, David Rousculp has been working on a different St. Paddy's tradition: Flanagan's Wake.

The biannual tradition of staging this interactive, comedic play, which began in 2020, takes place at Harper's Community Funeral Home in New Haven.

This year's show opens Friday, March 8, taking place over two weekends, with the final show being on St. Patrick's Day.

With the finale being on the holiday, it's advisable to get your ticket in advance.

"I thought nobody would come on a Sunday night," said Rousculp, who along with being the show's director is the funeral home's general manager, funeral director, and embalmer. "I thought we'd have a few people, but that's one of our bigger sellers. I don't know why. Now, with Sunday night being one of our bigger nights and it being St. Paddy's Day, I'm sure it will sell out."

RETURNEES AND NEWBIES

Flanagan's Wake is set in an Irish funeral home where mourners recall tales of their fallen friend and family member.

Along the way, there's the grieving Mother Flanagan and fiancée Fiona Finn, played by Chuck Fenwick and Ruth Fearnow, respectively. You'll also hear a eulogy by Mickey Finn (Colton Easterday) and tales from Father Damon Fitzgerald (Scott McMeen), Kathleen Mooney (Teresa Rust), and Brian Ballybunion (Shawn McCarthy), as Mayor Martin O'Doul (David Hill) and Peter Klopfenstein handles piano duties.

This will be McMeen's third time taking on the role of the pastor.

"He really just blows it out the park," Rousculp said of McMeen. "He's just so good."

Rust also took part in the 2022 production, and Fearnow returns after the March 2020 run was cut short due to, well you can guess why.

With the show relying heavily on improv, Rousculp is pleased to have Easterday and McCarthy on board since both are experienced thanks to their work with the recurring The Dinner Detective Murder Mystery Show at Courtyard by Marriott.

Among the newcomers is Hill, a former attendee that wanted to get in on the action.

"He saw the show last time and said he wanted to be in it," Rousculp said. "I said, 'OK, you'll be the mayor.'"

AUDIENCE PARTICIPATION

The cast have been busy rehearsing for the show, but they can't be too stringent. Over the course of the show, attendees are asked questions that steer the direction of the show.

"Every show is different because the audience decides how (Flanagan) died," said Rousculp, although that is not the only thing the audience decides.

"It's tough. There's seven or eight pieces that people are going to give you to tell the story, like, 'Inside the wall there was a what?' 'A mouse.' 'OK, what was the name of the mouse?' 'OK, so we had to take Martin the Mouse to where?' He has to remember all these things people are throwing at him and get back to the beginning of what the story is about. It's mind boggling."

Along with attendees throwing out suggestions, some will be called on to participate, such as this article's writer, who was called upon to sing "Danny Boy" in 2022.

"We do try to get a few people ahead of time," Rousculp said of recruiting audience members to leave the shadows and step into the light. "There's a point where a person is brought up to kiss Mother, and they try to find someone who will do that. They try to find somebody ahead of time that will sing 'Danny Boy.' Believe it or not, there are plenty of hams begging to do it."

HELPING VETERANS

In the end, it's all about having a good time. On top of having some laughs, the cost of your ticket goes to a good cause, local nonprofit The Shepherd's House, a long-term residential and transitional housing center for veterans battling addiction.

"I'm a fan of anything to do with veterans," Rousculp said, noting the 2022 show led to a $6,000 donation. "When I found out about Shepherd's House, I fell in love with their mission to help veterans in need."

Along with ticket sales, money raised from the cash bar is also donated.

"The prices are strong. They're not baseball park strong, but they're strong," Rousculp said. "Still, people buy. I'd say a big portion of that $6,000 we donated last time was probably from the pub."

Although there will be drinks available, Rousculp is adamant that is not the focus of this St. Patrick's celebration.

"The reason I did this, is being Irish, does that mean, 'Gee, do I go out and get drunk every day?' It was like, let's find something else to focus on," he said, noting a recent DNA test revealed he's 85 percent Irish. "The focus is more on, let's celebrate being Irish and let's have fun and make this a tradition of something we go do every other year."

Civic show focuses on our social connections

Challenging material featured in R-rated play by Civic Theatre

BY ALICIA RODENBECK

WHATZUP FEATURES WRITER

It is often said there are no more than six degrees of separation between any two people on Earth. This theory was proposed nearly 100 years ago by Hungarian writer Frigyes Karinthy.

The theory has since been researched by scientists at MIT, Columbia University, and Microsoft, and most people have heard there is a Hollywood version that links celebrities back to actor Kevin Bacon.

The Pulitzer-winning play Six Degrees of Separation, written by John Guare, seeks to explore those connections and how they can sometimes be exploited. Fort Wayne Civic Theatre will present the show at the Parkview Physicians Group ArtsLab at the Auer Center for Arts and Culture, March 15-24.

DOING THE HUSTLE

Six Degrees of Separation, which was also made into an Oscar-nominated film starring Stockard Channing and Will Smith in 1993, deals with some heavy topics and is rated R for language and content, including mentions of suicide.

"We have told this story as honestly as possible to address all of the trauma in the story," director Ranae Butler said when discussing the somewhat triggering nature of the material in the script.

The plot revolves around a hustler named Paul (played by Ennis L. Brown II) as he works his hustle on two couples, the older Ouisa (Julie Donnell) and Flan (Bob Ahlersmeyer) and the younger Rick (Kevin Torwelle) and Elizabeth (Allison Arnos).

"First of all, I want to invite the audience to consider who the con men and the hustlers are in this play," Butler said. "The hustle is a major theme. Many characters are hustling."

While Butler admits everyone has their own agenda, Paul is the play's true antagonist and has traits not far from those of a certain Shakespearian schemer.

"Paul is very much like Iago (from Othello) in my mind in the way that he adapts on the spot to fill the specific need of the person in front of him," she said. "He is a chameleon with a brilliant mind who is adept at the improvisation necessary to be all things to all people. Unlike Iago, he is not driven by an innate desire to destroy. There are, unfortunately, destructive consequences of his actions."

STAGES OF THE SHOW

The story unfolds over 90 minutes with no intermission, which many would see as a one-act play.

"I really see this as a three-act play," she said.

"(In) Act One, the playwright, John Guare, is having fun with the white, liberal elite in New York's Upper East Side. These folks have an emptiness inside them, a disconnectedness with themselves and each other that leads them to seek out things that will fill the emptiness inside: experiences, possessions, causes, etc. When a bleeding friend of their children arrives at the door, they open the literal and figurative door to their very existence.

"Act Two is a mystery/thriller that develops from the events in Act One.

"Finally, Act Three can be described as a spiritual or dramatic awakening. The question is, which of these characters will experience that awakening?"

These experiences the characters on stage portray are what Butler believes make Six Degrees of Separation so relatable.

"It's for anybody who is a parent or who was ever a young adult," she said. "It's for anybody who ever felt their life might be passing in a blur without real meaning. It's for anybody who is trying to find authentic connection with another human being."

HELPING TELL THE STORY

On the subject of human beings, Butler is quick to praise her fantastic cast and celebrate the journey they have been on together.

"Well, the cast is extraordinary," she said. "We had 36 people audition, which speaks to the appetite local actors have to work on straight plays of substance.

"I've got some of the best actors in town and people I admire so much. No exaggeration.

"I'm trying to provide enough direction to get us on the same page stylistically and keep us all living in the moment. Then I get out of the way."

Butler elaborated that she and Brown have a longstanding professional relationship that was helpful in tackling this material.

"I have worked with Ennis many times over the past 15 years, so we have an actor/director shorthand that makes the work very efficient and rewarding," she said.

Those on stage are not the only people who Butler believes need to be praised.

"My stage manager (Brittney Lynne Koza), I'm very fussy about blocking, and she is juggling all the balls to keep us on track," Butler said. "She has provided terrific dramaturgical support, too. I am in her debt."

Butler also looks forward to showing off the hard work of her design team who have embraced her three-act approach.

"The designers and I addressed these acts at our first meeting, and we have all been working to bring this concept to life through the design elements," she said.

Finally, Butler shares what she thinks should draw the audiences to see this performance.

"This show is special because the story is timeless and relevant," she said. "It's compact. It's an actor's script. It's thought-provoking and intelligent. We hope it provokes you to look inward."

Metalcore group returns to Clyde with trio of bands

WHATZUP FEATURES WRITER

Ready to mosh and crowd surf the night away?

If you are, The Clyde Theatre will be the place to be on Thursday, March 14, when Beartooth comes to town with The Plot in You, Invent Animate, and Sleep Theory.

LIGHTENING UP

Ohio-based Beartooth are touring in support of their fifth studio album The Surface, which was released in the fall.

For a lot of fans, the album sees the metalcore group return to their roots but with a present-day sound and a much more positive outlook on life. Previous albums have been on the darker side and leaned into the depressing subjects popular throughout metal and rock.

Frontman Caleb Shomo has spoken about this topic, saying he was writing what he was going through, but he's happy now and wants fans to be able to sing about more positive aspects of life.

GAINING ACCLAIM

Beartooth formed in early 2012 in Columbus, Ohio.

At the time, Shomo was in Attack Attack!, but he began writing songs outside of the group.

After adding three members, they began playing live. They found themselves on a couple gigs and made their way into the Warp Tour following their 2013 EP, Sick.

There have been multiple lineup changes and a lot of fame surrounding the band. They have been nominated for 15 awards and have won five, including Best Breakthrough Band and Best International Artist from Heavy Music Awards.

Shomo, bassist Oshie Bichar, drummer Connor Denis, lead guitarist Zach Huston, and rhythm guitarist Will Deely describe themselves as "a sound sought by a generation of bands, equal parts solitary musical confession and celebratory exorcism. Beartooth music is an outright refusal to suffer in silence, weaponizing radio-ready bombast to deliver raw emotion mixed with noise-rock chaos. They combine hard rock and hardcore in a way that's smart, lean, melodic, and irresistible, without apology.

"Beartooth offers no cure, but the recovery comes in the process; the journey is the destination. So enjoy the ride."

MAKING CONNECTION

Sitting at more than 2 million monthly listeners, it's clear Beartooth have made an impact on many people.

One of those people is Andrea Wolford, who is sure to be in attendance at the Fort Wayne show.

"I've been listening to Beartooth since high school, and it has been so amazing to see how much they have grown as a band and how their message has evolved in the past 10 or so years," she said. "I have been lucky enough to catch them the last four times they have played in Fort Wayne, three of which were at The Clyde, and you can feel the energy coming from Caleb Shomo and the band. It is an incredible feeling to sing those words back to him and having those lyrics get me through some difficult times."

As she mentioned, Beartooth is no stranger to Fort Wayne. In fact, when live shows were shut down due to the pandemic, Beartooth utilized The Clyde to film a livestream of the story from the graphic novel The Journey Below to give fans the chance to still see some live music being played.

This was a popular idea at the time as a means to still perform even when the world felt like it came to a halt during 2020.

Nine shows have already sold out on the tour including Indianapolis. Fort Wayne is the final show for the North American leg of the tour before they head overseas for the international leg.

Jason Bonham brings Zeppelin to Wabash ason Bonham's Led Zeppelin Evening has announced a 12-city North American tour for this spring which includes a stop at Honeywell Center in Wabash on Sunday, April 21.

Bonham formed the Led Zeppelin Experience in 2009 to pay tribute to his father, legendary Led Zeppelin drummer John Bonham, who died in 1980 at the age of 32.

Jason Bonham toured nearly a decade under "The Experience" moniker before changing the band's name to Jason Bonham's Led Zeppelin Evening, a request by the original band who had thoughts of using the Led Zeppelin Experience in a campaign marking their 50th anniversary.

Alongside a group of fellow journeyman musicians, Bonham will perform some of Led Zeppelin's most iconic songs at the Honeywell in addition to a few deep cuts. As an added bonus, Bonham's son Jager Henry will open the show. Unlike his father and grandfather, Henry's music finds him behind the mic rather than behind the drum kit.

Tickets are on sale at honeywellcenter.org.

Known for the holiday performances, this time around the area they will travel back a few decades for Straight No Chaser Summer: The 90s.

The band actually came together in the '90s at Indiana University, so it's a very special era for them. That's why they are more than excited to breathe new life into classic songs from that decade, remind fans of where they were during that time, and maybe even spread the love to a new generation.

Tickets to see the forerunners of modern day a cappella can be purchased at thebluegate.com.

Framing Hanley stopping at Piere's

On Friday, April 12, Stan's Room inside Piere's will open their stage to alternative rockers Framing Hanley.

Perhaps best known for their internet-breaking cover of Lil Wayne's "Lollipop" in 2007, the Nashville, Tennessee, act released a few albums and was a touring force more than a decade before going on hiatus in 2015. In 2020, they returned with a new album, Envy, that garnered rave reviews, and just last year, they released two singles, "Say Less" and "Start a Fire."

A special acoustic set by the band Rookie of the Year will open the show, so make it a point to be on time.

Tickets for this all-ages show can be purchased online at etix.com.

Rick Springfield set for Foellinger Theatre

A sign that the summer concert season is around the corner is Fort Wayne Parks & Recreation announcing Foellinger Theatre will host Rick Springfield on Thursday, May 23, to promote his album Automatic.

The past four decades, Springfield has worn many hats as an entertainer and performer including creating some of the finest power-pop of the '80s with "Jessie's Girl," "Don't Talk to Strangers," "Affair of the Heart," and "I've Done Everything for You."

Tickets go on sale Friday, March 8, at 10 a.m. at the department's office, 705 E. State Blvd. or go online at fortwayneparks.org and ticketmaster.com.

Catch Beatles tribute show at Sweetwater

Sweetwater has announced 1964: The Tribute will perform Sunday, Sept. 15, at the Sweetwater Pavilion.

These cats re-create all the sights and sounds fastidious Beatles fans would expect with all the fine-feeling mannerisms, humorous banter, instrumentations, and harmonies with unerring accuracy and precision.

Tickets go on sale Friday, March 8, at 10 a.m. at Sweetwater and online via ticketmaster.com and sweetwater-pavilion.com.

Irish coach Marcus Freeman comes to town otre Dame head football coach Marcus Freeman will speak at Grand Wayne Convention Center as part of Common Bond on Thursday, May 2, a fundraiser for local nonprofit Erin's House for Grieving Children.

Freeman will shares his unique insights on leadership, teamwork, overcoming adversity, and achieving your goals.

From coaching in one of the most coveted positions in sports to being a father of six, Freeman will share his journey and how he inspires and empowers individuals to strive for excellence and the pursuit of greatness.

Common Bond is a cherished tradition for Erin's House helping to raise funds to further their mission.

"Our Common Bond event each spring joins friends, families, coworkers, and now sports fans together to enjoy an inspirational message and support youth grieving in our community," Executive Director Debbie Meyer said. "We always look forward to sharing about the Erin's House mission at this meaningful event each year, and we are ecstatic to have coach Marcus Freeman's support this year."

Tickets are $150 and can be purchased by going to erinshouse.org/common-bond.

Fort Wayne on mission to attract visitors

Fort Wayne and Allen County are on a 10-year mission to become a premier destination for visitors.

To accomplish this, they're establishing a tourism master plan to put special focus on underserved areas and improve the quality of life through economic revitalization, community engagement, sustainability, and the preservation of natural and cultural heritage.

The plan will prioritize foundational improvements, downtown Fort Wayne, group business, regional tourism development, riverfront development, and tourism product development.

For more information, go to visitfortwayne.com/tourismmasterplan.

Free yoga at Promenade Park

Bring your yoga mat to Promenade Park for free yoga on the riverfront once a month in Park Foundation Pavilion.

All skill levels are welcome for this class led by instructor Chelsea Vona of Discover Yoga. Yoga mats can be provided if you do not have your own.

Classes are scheduled to take place on the second Sunday of each month, with the next being March 10 from 10-11:30 a.m.

More time to catch The Prom

First Presbyterian Theater and Fort Wayne Youtheatre have collaborated on the Fort Wayne premiere of the musical The Prom.

The musical centers on four eccentric Broadway stars who are in desperate need of a new stage. So, when they hear that trouble is brewing around an Indiana smalltown prom after a female student tries to bring her girlfriend to the dance, they know that it's time to put a spotlight on the issue ... and on themselves.

The show premiered March 1 at First Presbyterian Theater and runs two more weekends through Sunday, March 17

Local artists featured in Indiana State Museum

Running March 9-June 23, Indiana State Museum will present the exhibit IN the Abstract: Art from Northern Indiana.

"IN the Abstract highlights the museum's ongoing commitment to showcasing contemporary art by Indiana artists," said Mark Ruschman, Indiana State Museum and Historic Sites senior curator of art emeritus.

"More specifically, this exhibits represents the diversity of artists working in northern Indiana, sharing their personal stories and reasons for making art, and shining a light on what makes their work unique."

Adapted and expanded from a 2022 exhibit at Fort Wayne Museum of Art, IN the Abstract features a variety of two-dimensional pieces, including paintings and fabric works, as well as three-dimensional sculptures of ceramic, metal and even natural materials.

Local artists featured include Austin Cartwright, Sayaka Ganz, Nazar Harran, Justin Johnson, George Morrison, Sara Nordling, Maurice Papier, Erin Patton-McFarren, Michael W. Poorman, Audrey Riley, Theopolis Smith III (Phresh Laundry), and Cara Lee Wade of Fort Wayne; Hannah Burnworth of North Manchester; and Mary Pat Wallen of Warsaw.

Harper's

Multifaceted cocktail bar opening soon

The Landing continues to burst with activity with the announcement that the much-anticipated opening of Dana's, Night Train, and Blue Bottle Shop will be March 13.

Housed at the corner of Harrison and Columbia streets in the former Columbia Street West, the businesses are latest effort from Be Better Hospitality, the group behind Penny Drip.

Off the Eaten Path
DEAN JACKSON

On the first floor is Dana's, which promises to be an elegant neighborhood tavern that is named after Dana Columbia, founder of Columbia Street and The Landing in the 1800s. Accompanied by a French-inspired tavern food menu for pairings, Dana's will serve up cocktails and a special selection of beer, wine, and spirits. It will be open every day from 4 p.m.-midnight.

In the basement is Night Train. It's a tip of the hat to the railroad lines nearby and will be more of a late-night hangout with entertainment in a fun, energized bar setting. Like Dana's, it's open seven days a week, stretching from 6 p.m-3 a.m.

Blue Bottle Shop offers a carefully selected showcase of beverages that promises to be "your destination for specialty spirits, liqueurs, wines, beers, non-alcoholic and cocktail tools." Again, its historical roots date back to the day of the original Blue Bottle store where pioneers would grab supplies like whiskey for their travels.

Chapman's tapping Electric Works market

We are getting our first look at the anchor of the Electric Works project.

Chapman's Brewing leaders will show off their new company headquarters in Building 27, just across Dynamo Alley next to Union Street Market.

The headquarters will have more than business offices since there is also a 10-barrel brewery and restaurant/ taproom.

When it was announced in 2021, they teased us with a full-service, next-level dining experience with great beer and food and 24 beers on tap, besides wine and cider

The brewery also has a taproom in downtown Columbia City and in the terminal at Fort Wayne International Airport.

Sister Cities Gala coming March 23

Time is running out to get tickets for the Taste of Sisters Cities Gala on March 23 at Parkview Mirro Center, 10622 Parkview Plaza Drive.

The event celebrates the culture and cuisine of Fort Wayne's five sister cities: Takaoka, Japan; Gera, Germany; Plock, Poland; Taizhou, China; and Mawlamyine, Myanmar.

The gala is a night of authentic cuisine from each of those cities, as well as music, dance, and a silent auction.

Proceeds benefit exchange programs for building and strengthening friendships with citizens of these regions.

For more information, go to the Fort Wayne Sister Cities website at fortwaynesistercities.net.

Chimney Cakes closing May 25

Chimney Cakes Bakery & Caffé, 1202 W. Main St., have announced their last day will be May 25.

In a Facebook post this month, the owners said, "We are grateful for every minute we've got to serve you and we are hopeful that the future will open new doors for our business."

Until then, the store is open noon-6 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Sunday.

Plenty of good eats over St. Paddy's weekend

Here's a quick scouting report for some St. Patrick's Day food coming up.

Deer Park Irish Pub's 26th Annual Clover Classic runs from Friday, March 15, to Sunday, March 17, at 1530 Leesburg Road. Friday features an all-day fish fry from What the Fish food truck, keg tapping, and music. Saturday and Sunday includes Mo's Tacos, Matt's Hitchin Kitchen, and Another One Bites the Crust food trucks.

Kekionga Craft Company, 7328 Maysville Road, is serving up green cider, green slushies, and Irish stew on Saturday, March 16, as part of their party. It runs from noon-10 p.m.

JK O'Donnell's Irish Ale House, 121 W. Wayne St., celebrates with live music all-night Saturday and from 5-8 p.m. Sunday. There is a $5 cover charge, and their menu includes Irish favorites like bangers and mash, corned beef, fish, and chips.

FULL THROTTLE MONSTER TRUCKS

1:30 P.M. AND 7:30 P.M. SATURDAY, MARCH 9 · MEMORIAL COLISEUM

They are loud and they are proud. They also like to kick up dirt, make incredible jumps, and smash cars. They are monster trucks and they are returning to Memorial Coliseum when the Full Throttle Monster Trucks tour stops for two shows on Saturday, March 9.

Come see Bigfoot, American Scout, Hoosier Daddy, Bugzilla, and others battle it out for Monster Truck supremacy as they take part in three competitions, including a race, a wheelie contest, and a freestyle competition.

Kicking off the season, this Fort Wayne event will offer tour competitors the first chance to earn points toward the Full Throttle Cup.

The International Monster Truck Museum and Hall of Fame will have trucks on site as well to check out from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. and 5-7 p.m. — Chris Hupe

JASON MEWES

SATURDAY-SUNDAY, MARCH 9-10 · SUMMIT CITY COMEDY CLUB

One half of the indie film duo Jay and Silent Bob is coming to the Summit City Comedy Club for four shows on March 9-10.

Jason Mewes, otherwise known as Jay in the Kevin Smith-penned films Clerks, Mallrats, and Jay & Silent Bob Strike Back, will take the stage to tell behind-the-scenes tales about his time in the film industry, his life outside of acting, and his lifelong friendship with Smith.

You are guaranteed to stay on the edge of your seat, laughing hysterically as he meanders through his seemingly endless supply of "A-Mewes-ing" stories. — Chris Нире

Party celebrates Wooden Nickel founder's impact

Roetstock will feature local music March 15 at Baker Street Centre

BY CHRIS HUPE

WHATZUP FEATURES WRITER

It's the end of an era. And the beginning of a new one.

Bob Roets finally did what no one, other than he and his family, thought he would ever do: He retired from one of Fort Wayne's most iconic businesses at the beginning of the year, handing the keys to the three Wooden Nickel Records stores to his son Christopher Roets.

To celebrate his tenure as the head of Wooden Nickel Records, Baker Street Centre will host Roetstock: A BobFest on Friday, March 15, featuring performances by The High Freqs, Alicia Pyle & Sunny Taylor, U.R.B., Kenny Taylor, and The Legendary Trainhoppers.

It will be a time to look back fondly on times spent in his stores, take the chance to show your appreciation to the man himself, and look back at the impact he and his family have had on the Fort Wayne community.

TAKING A CHANCE

As many know, Roets came to Fort Wayne in 1981 as the manager of Slatewood Records, a three-store chain based in Madison, Wisconsin. He managed that store a few years before it abruptly closed.

Seeing the potential, Roets negotiated a lease in the same spot.

"I didn't know what was going to happen, but one thing I did know was that I had built up a little bit of clientele," Roets said in a recent Whatzup interview.

In July 1982, armed with a small amount of money, his stereo system, and his personal record collection that he turned into inventory, Roets opened Wooden Nickel Records and Tapes at 3627 N. Clinton St.

By his count, there were 11 other record stores in Fort Wayne, but none seemed to have the local connections he had established.

"From the beginning, I said I'm going to do this right and get out there and reach people," he said.

COMMUNITY CONNECTION

To do that, he enlisted several local radio personalities, including Elvis & Hammer and Doc West, to help.

"Doc said he would be there the first day, and he was," Roets said of the DJ for WXKE-FM. "He broadcast live that first day and literally helped open the store."

It's that connection to the community that Roets counts as one of his favorite things about owning his business.

Following his retirement, former Wooden Nickel Records owner Bob Roets will have more time to spend with his family, from left, son Andy Roets, wife Cindy Roets, and son and new Wooden Nickel Records owner Christopher Roets.

He was involved with the Whatzup Battle of the Bands for more than a decade, helped tremendously in presenting the annual Whatzup Whammy Awards, served on the board of the Fort Wayne Children's Choir and the Carroll High School Band Boosters, worked at many of the events at C2G Music Hall, and assisted WBOI's Julia Meek on many occasions.

"I probably have 3,000 videos on my You-Tube channel from doing those things," he said.

SUPPORT FOR LOCAL ARTISTS

Roets has also employed many local musicians, members of the artistic community, and even hack writers like myself over the years. He has hosted countless local bands and artists in his stores as well, strengthening and solidifying his bond with the local music community.

In the beginning, he said, record label representatives would contact him routinely asking him to host national artists for meet and greets: "We did a lot of those."

However, as downloading became more prevalent, those in-store events were cut back.

"Where it really hit rock bottom was 1998, when Napster hit," Roets said.

At that time, his focused turned toward the local music scene.

"That's when I met Sunny Taylor, Matt Kelley, the guys from Left Lane Cruiser, and people like that," he said. "We built a stage right after we moved into the (North) Anthony location and started hosting bands. Almost any band that wanted to throw a new release party, we'd do it for them."

NAVIGATING CHOPPY WATERS

Roets has had to navigate the many changes

ROETSTOCK: A BOBFEST W/THE HIGH FREOS. KENNY TAYLO

of the music buying public over the years, shifting from vinyl to cassettes to CDs and back to vinyl, all while downloading and streaming took a big part of his potential customers from him.

He credits his participation in Record Store Day, which began in 2007, and his membership in the Coalition of Independent Music Stores as two of the biggest factors helping him stay afloat.

"By 2006, records weren't selling at all and CD sales were severely down because iTunes was killing us," he said.

His membership in CIMS is something he proudly boasts since Fort Wayne is the smallest market represented in the organization and the only member with three stores.

LASTING IMPACT

But, what he doesn't say, or, perhaps is too humble to admit, is that he is likely the biggest reason Wooden Nickel has not only survived, but has continued to thrive when so many record stores across the country have closed.

Through 40-plus years, as you might expect, Roets has affected many people in a positive way. One only needs to go as far as the incomparable Doc West.

"Bob's passion and enthusiasm for our musical community will be passed from generation to generation for the next hundred years," West said. "In spite of the attempts by bigbox stores to snuff out locally owned record stores, the Roets family is still standing."

Fort Wayne music royalty Sunny Taylor said that she was only 18 when she met Roets, shortly after releasing her first album.

"He agreed to carry it at Wooden Nickel," she said. "Because of that, I was able to get my music to a bigger audience at a time when music streaming didn't exist.

"He highlighted so many local artists during his Record Store Day events, and he has supported a lot of local music venues over the years. Very few people in our community have pulled harder to shine a light on Fort Wayne's music community than Bob Roets."

Another local musical stalwart, Alicia Pyle, concurs.

"Bob Roets has been one of the main heartbeats for local music for his entire career," she said. "The way that he always took the time to connect with people, showcase bands, and champion local music will leave a lasting impression on our city and our music scene for generations to come."

Matt Kelley of The Legendary Trainhoppers and owner of One Lucky Guitar explained the magic of Wooden Nickel.

"Those visits resulted in me buying my new favorite-album-ever, or queuing up to buy tickets the moment they went on sale for a concert I'd spent the summer daydreaming about, or the friendships made by striking up a conversation with another patron who had also lined up to buy 'Insert Album Here' on its day of release," Kelley said.

Former local musician and now international touring guitarist Justin Zych, one of those musicians Roets employed over the years, said he appreciated having an income while he was learning his craft and finishing his education.

"He always took the time to help local musicians succeed and bring their products into the store," Zych said.

While we will celebrate the past on March 15, the remaining question is how Roets will fill his days now.

He said he is still going to stay active with the stores behind the scenes, helping Christopher as he pilots the stores in both familiar and new ways. He also plans to spend a lot of time with his granddaughter and travel as much as he can with his wife, Cindy.

To gauge his impact on the community, Adam Baker of The High Freqs put it best.

"Bob Roets is an icon of vinyl, a music history lesson in human form, and a huge supporter of live music from local to national acts," he said. "I know the music community will miss working with him, but after all that he's done, he deserves a great retirement and hopefully the rest of us can live up to the bar he has set."

Robert Suraci

It's About Time

It's been a long time coming, but Fort Wayne musician Robert Suraci has released his solo material.

With a background in sound engineering, the other half of The Flying Suraci, along with his wife Susie, has released an album that makes you feel like you're sitting around a campfire following a day at the lake.

Opening with the Jack Johnson-esque "Move Along," It's About Time features plenty of fun songs, none more so than "Temptation" and its 1960s pop sound. "Big Empty House" is another body mover with its "I Want Candy" vibe and Quincy Sanders supplying tenor sax.

Along with having fun, Suraci also delves into deeper material with "Covidnation," "Pride in America," and "Duane the Musicman." Jane Heald plays cello on the latter with Felix Moxter on viola.

Love plays a major role on the album, most notably for his wife, who lent her songwriting prowess and vocals to a number of tracks, including "No More Lonely Girl," "Silver Spoon," and "Love Is Hiding."

Along with his wife joining on "Silver Spoon," his children Sarah Suraci, Robin Grimm, Alex Suraci, and Rick Fernandez supply "kid sounds" in a track where Suraci looks back on his life over the previous 20 years, gauging changes himself.

"Silver Spoon" encapsulates this album, which is about good times, trying times, and, above all, family. — Anthony Gadson

Loss of Life

When you hit as hard and effectively as Andrew VanWyngarden and Ben Goldwasser did with their MGMT debut Oracular Spectacular in 2007, it seems it can only go downhill from there. The bratty psych pop record locked into the zeitgeist of the times, signaling a new direction in alt/indie music, as well as a new direction in the country with the 2008 election. Everything seemed right for world domination of MGMT.

While the band's 2010 follow-up Congratulations saw the band expand their sonic palate and not rely on the success of what came before, the album just didn't land like their debut. More albums were to follow, and MGMT continued to write and record with varying degrees of success. They're not reclaiming their psych pop throne, but they're still making noise in the kingdom.

MGMT returns with Loss of Life, a solid and catchy collection of tunes that show two musicians maturing in sound and structure. It's a fine record, with less technicolor explosions and more sunset contemplation.

The party vibes of yesterday are gone, replaced by melody-driven tunes that see middle age sitting nicely for these former psychedelic sons.

The complex '80s synth touches of "People in the Streets" sound more like Talk Talk than Flaming Lips, while "Dancing in Babylon" with Christine & The Queens is almost soulful in its catchy vocal duet.

Single "Bubblegum Dog" reaches back to the quirky fun of those first two records. Bringing to mind early Beck and Ween, the harpsichord and fuzz guitar gives the song a back-and-forth between '60s psych pop and the modern production touches of Jon Brion. It's the perfect melding of old and new.

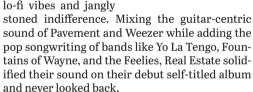

From the Elliot Smith-like baroque pop of "Nothing To Declare" to the hazy acoustics of "Phradie's Song" to album closer and title track "Loss of Life" and its Zombies vibes, MGMT prove they still have it. To some degree they've surpassed what came before.

While not blowing down doors with album sales or popularity, MGMT have something more important: longevity. — $J.\ Hubner$

Real Estate

Daniel

New Jersey's Real Estate arrived straight from backyard barbecues and college kegger parties in the late 2000s, sporting lo-fi vibes and jangly

Albums like Days and Atlas only perfected that sound. With original member Matt Mondanile leaving after Atlas, the band filled out their lineup with a keyboardist and took a more intricate approach in the studio. While the albums continued to sound great, there was a laid-back feel that was missing from the records.

Daniel sees Real Estate going back to a looser approach to songwriting and to working in the studio. Produced by Daniel Tashian (Kacey Musgraves, Jessie James Decker), Daniel is heavy on jangly guitars and shimmering production, a welcome return to breezier songs.

"Somebody New" opens the album with mellotron strings before the band locks into shimmering guitar strings and an almost '70s AM vibe. Singer Martin Courtney has the perfect voice to deliver breezy songs that are in no hurry to get to the end. "Water Underground" keeps those vibes going, bringing to mind Sunday car rides and backyard get-togethers. "Freeze Brain" sports a lowkey groove and a melancholic melody. You can almost imagine the hum of the New Jersey Turnpike in the background.

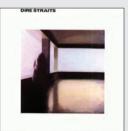

Tashian keeps things simple sonically. The band sounds clean and upfront, with a natural and organic vibe and a crisp studio sheen.

Backtracks CLASSIC ALBUMS

Dire Straits

Dire Straits (1978)

Forming in 1977, Dire Straits did not take long to release their debut album.

With the hit "Sultans of Swing" in heavy FM rotation, they were invited to open for Talking Heads. This tour gave them credibility and, soon thereafter, a solid fan base.

Founder Mark Knopfler's signature guitar sound merged elements of blues, rock, and jazz and gave Dire Straits a very innovative sound.

This record had nine songs, all with refreshingly hip guitar parts. "Sultans of Swing" may have spoiled us, but the rest of the album is just as good.

"Down to the Water Line" starts out with a soft jazzy sound then breaks into progressive yet clean rock and sets a tempo for the whole album.

"Water of Love" jogs comfortably along with serene guitar and percussion and gives you a glimpse of the sharp lyrics they could produce.

"Lions" and "Wild West End" have a bluesy feel with Knopfler's trademark guitar chops sprinkled throughout.

One of the best tracks is "Six Blade Knife," a very robust blues number. This is where Dire Straits should have ventured, but regrettably they went the adult-rock route.

When the Grammy-winning "Money for Nothing" hit the airwaves (and of course MTV) in 1985, everything changed.

Dire Straits did go on to record a handful of some great records and had big hits with "Skateaway," "Walk of Life," and "So Far Away." They eventually split up in 1994.

This album is incredible and simply must be listened to in one sitting to appreciate it.

And try to find Knopfler's other group, The Notting Hillbillies. It is a pleasant surprise. — Dennis Donahue

"Say No More" comes driving out of the speakers while the piano-led "Victoria" has an almost country feel with piano and steel guitar. Bassist Alex Bleeker takes lead vocals and does a solid twangy delivery here.

Album closer "You Are Here" brings things to a close on an introspective note. Crisp drums and Courtney's vocals hang in the air long after the song ends.

After 15 years and band members coming and going, Courtney and Bleeker keep the home fires burning with Daniel. Real Estate continue to evolve, as songwriters and as a band. — J. Hubner

Sci-fi saga has an epic conclusion or retroactive clarity, Denis Villeneuve's Dune: Part One was originally due to come out November 2020, but got pushed almost a year, debuting October 2021 in theaters and on HBO Max simultaneously.

Now premiering exclusively in theaters, Dune: Part Two was originally slated to come out in October but was delayed several months due to the Hollywood labor disputes of 2023. Pandemics and picket lines may have affected the release schedules for these two sci-fi epics, but fortunately they certainly haven't affected their quality one bit. If Part One was Villeneuve's way to introduce us to the world of Dune and its densely layered mythology, then Part Two gives us a chance to luxuriate in its singular splendor and sophisticated storytelling.

Picking up where Dune left off, Paul Atreides (Timothée Chalamet) and his mother, Lady Jessica (Rebecca Ferguson), continue to live among and learn from the desert-dwelling Fremen tribes. The evil Harkonnens, led by the corpulent Baron Vladimir (Stellan Skarsgård), attempt to capitalize on their coup of the House Atreides, but their campaign to extract spice from the sands of Arrakis is thwarted by Fremen attacks. Desperate to regain control on the planet, the Baron recruits his bloodthirsty nephew Feyd-Rautha (Austin Butler) to clamp down on the frequent ambushes of their spice production equipment. Though Paul is initially treated as an outsider by the Fremen, their leader Stilgar (Javier Bardem) begins to see signs of an ancient prophecy in Paul's rapid assimilation to their ways.

We've seen the hero's journey in other large-scale cinematic adventures like Star Wars and Lord of the Rings. but where Dune: Part Two deviates from the traditional narrative is in its moral complexity. Luke Skywalker and Frodo Baggins are humble exemplars who resist temptation from dark forces and remain good in their quest to achieve their respective goals. With respect to those trilogies and their protagonists, Paul Atreides goes through a much more complex character arc specifically in this section of the story that I found consistently fascinating. In the finest performance of his young career, Chalamet builds upon his work from the previous chapter and reveals the thornier sides of being a monomyth's "chosen one." With his character's zealot-like devotion to Paul's ascent, Bardem scores some unexpected laughs with how effusive he becomes in his

About as tactfully as any blockbuster I've seen, Dune: Part Two taps into how fear and faith are tools that are used to maintain control of the masses by ruling parties. Through gladiatorial combat shot in stupefying infrared cinematography by Greig Fraser, Baron Harkonnen asserts psychological dominance over his House with a display of brutality by his heir apparent. But through fundamentalist teachings carried out by Stilgar and his followers, we also see how the Fremen's actions are restricted by the dogma of divinations that may or may not be true. The film doesn't necessarily ask us to decide which of these is the "better" or morally upstanding method but rather to consider how the two may not differ as much as it would seem on the surface.

Zendaya plays Paul's Fremen love interest who grows more wary of his deification and finally declares, "This prophecy is how they enslave us!" at a pseudo-religious Chalamet and Zendaya are excellent in their central roles, but like Part One, this chapter sports uniformly terrific performances from a deep roster of some of the most talented performers out there.

Florence Pugh lends an ominous aristocracy to her Princess Irulan, and Léa Sevdoux is seductive perfection as one of the Bene Gesserit sent to proposition Feyd-Rautha. Butler is another new face here, and despite his much-discussed work in Elvis, he sheds the rock star affectation and hip-swinging in a performance that's perfectly measured menace.

If there's a weak link, Christopher Walken doesn't register much in the important role of Emperor Shaddam. I think there were a number of actors who could have brought more to the character, and sadly I kept thinking how great the late Tom Wilkinson would've been for it.

Small quibbles aside, Dune: Part Two is another home run from the strongest voice working in cinematic science fiction today.

New movies coming this week

- Coming to theaters is Kung Fu Panda 4, an animated comedy starring Jack Black and Awkwafina continuing the adventures of the titular martial arts master as he searches for his successor as the new Dragon Warrior while fighting a new foe.
- Also playing only in theaters is Imaginary, a supernatural horror movie starring DeWanda Wise and Tom Payne about a woman who returns to her childhood home to discover the imaginary friend she left behind is very real and unhappy she abandoned him.
- Streaming on Netflix is Damsel, a fantasy film starring Millie Bobby Brown and Ray Winstone involving a sheltered young noblewoman who agrees to marry a handsome prince, only to discover his family intends to sacrifice her to repay an ancient debt.

Michaels brings back Parti Gras this summer oison frontman Bret Michaels has enlisted the help of former Foreigner singer Lou Gramm, former Twisted Sister frontman Dee Snider, former Eagle Don Felder, and country star Chris Janson for the 2024 version of his Parti Gras Tour.

Aptly named Parti Gras 2.0, this

five-act The extravaganza plans to bring ultimate the party experience to concertgoers, Notes Michaels said in CHRIS HUPE a press release.

Road

He expressed his excitement, highlighting the camaraderie and energy shared among the performers.

"What I think makes it come together, besides the friendship and the chemistry of (the performers), is just the music, the timeless classic hits, and a lot of energy," he said. "It's hit songs. People feel like they're having a great time."

Each act brings their own unique flair to the stage, with Felder opening the evening with a barrage of Eagles hits, followed by Snider's electrifying performance and Gramm's iconic renditions of Foreigner classics. Janson, whom Michaels considers a kindred spirit, will also grace the stage, adding a country twist to the festivities.

The tour also visits Pine Knob Music Center near Detroit on Aug. 23.

Cage the Elephant on tour

Alternative rockers Cage the Elephant have announced tour in support of their upcoming album Neon Pill, due out May 17.

The tour kicks off June 20 in Salt Lake City and makes its way to our region Aug. 7 at Ruoff Music Center in Noblesville. It then stops at Credit Union 1 Arena in Chicago on Aug. 14, followed by Van Andel Arena in Grand Rapids on Aug. 16, Riverbend Music Center in Cincinnati on Aug. 30, Blossom Music Center in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, on Sept. 9, and Pine Knob Music Center in Clarkston, Michigan, on Sept. 10.

Bach has nothing to lose

Former Skid Row frontman Sebastian Bach will hit the road in 2024 for the What Do I Got To Lose?

The trek, named after his latest single, stops by Elevation at The Intersection in Grand Rapids on May 29, The King of Clubs in Columbus, Ohio, on June 2, and Saint Andrews Hall in Detroit June 4.

"We are super excited to embark upon the What Do I Got to Lose? tour 2024," Bach said. "This is the first song that I've ever had on U.S. rock radio with my solo band, and I can't wait to play live for all of you this summer with no tapes, no fakes, all real, all the time."

Pink adds 2nd Detroit show

Due to popular demand, Pink has booked a second Detroit show with opening act The Script and KidCutUp.

The iconic performer will now make it a two-night stay at Little Caesars Arena with shows Oct. 14-15.

Michigan news website MLive ranked her 2023 stadium show at Comerica Park in Detroit the No. 1 concert in Michigan for the year. so it's probably worth the effort to travel to the Motor City if you're interested at all.

Luke Bryan headlines festival

Luke Bryan will headline the annual 99.5 WYCD Hoedown at Pine Knob Music Theatre, north of Detroit, in June.

With tickets almost gone for the show, the five-time Entertainer of the Year and American Idol celebrity judge has added a second date for the annual event.

The Hoedown will feature acts across two stages, including main stage performances from Alana Springsteen on Friday, June 28, and Ella Langley on Saturday, June 29. Chase Matthew and Hunter-Girl will perform on the main stage both days.

Road Notes covers concerts within driving distance of Northeast Indiana. Send your news items to info@whatzup.com.

Kick your drumming into overdrive with powerhouse drummer Tommy Clufetos. This Detroit-born tempo titan's work-hard, play-hard attitude has led him to become the pounding force propelling some of the biggest names in rock, including Black Sabbath, Mötley Crüe, and Alice Cooper.

Invigorate your drumming career with Tommy's hard-earned, hammer-and-tongs insight!

Discover Tommy's insights:

- Play for the music not for musicians
- Don't be timid. Unleash the beast!
- Big rooms vs. small rooms
- The difference between learning and knowing a song
- Leading the band through your drumming
- Focus on all styles or specialize?
- Avoiding the pitfalls
- Defining success
